

LIQUOR PROBLEM STILL HAUNTING ADMINISTRATION

Decision of Supreme Court Gives Offi- cials Trouble.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—The liquor problem again became the paramount concern of the federal government today as a result of the decision of the supreme court drawing a prohibition dead line around the territory and territorial waters of the United States.

On the one side officials turned their attention searchingly to the question of what to do in the face of the court's ruling that outside the three mile dead line American ships can become under the present law, as well as they desire.

On the other hand, there arose a new cause for perplexity and international disagreement over the edict of the court that no foreign ship can bring liquor inside the three mile limit despite the fact that some foreign nations require their vessels by law to have liquor aboard and to serve it to their crews wherever they may be.

Over these two features of the situation President Harding and his cabinet put their heads together while officials of other interested agencies of the government were at work on lesser tangled odds and ends of prohibition enforcement and while wet and dry in congress were devising devious ways to make the law over entirely at the next session.

The net result of the day's deliberations was for the most part negative, but there were many indications that development in the involving every phase of the situation were in the immediate offing.

At the white house, before the cabinet meeting, Chairman Lasker of the shipping board, conferred with the president and indicated afterward that the policy of the chief executive toward resuming liquor serving on its vessels outside the prohibition dead line would be set forth shortly in a statement. Observations led, too, to the impression that the shipping board itself probably would stay dry as a matter of policy.

The treasury department which is responsible for administration of the Volstead act, began likewise the preparation of a statement which will lay down the principles on which the decision of the highest court will be applied to shipping at American ports on arrival and departure.

Attorney General Daugherty, whose celebrated "sore cry" opinion was partly upheld and partly overthrown by the court, studied the text of the decision and prepared a statement holding that the real effect was to strengthen the position taken by him in favor of drastic enforcement.

Among the foreign diplomats, and at the state department, there were evidences that a prolonged and perhaps delicate international exchange of views was in the making. Both the French and Italian government requires ships flying their flags to provide wine to the crews as a part of the regular ration, and the anomalous position that thus will be occupied by a French or Italian merchant men in an American port is fully expected here to give rise to vigorous representations by Paris and Rome, perhaps with the backing of London. What the state department will say in reply to such representations is admittedly one of the most delicate questions involved in the whole problem that now confronts the executive branch of the government. It is a question no state department official is willing to discuss for the present.

Intimations that the administration might ask congress to amend the law so as to exclude foreign ships in American ports from the federal prohibition laid down by the supreme court aroused an immediate protest from the dry battalions in the senate and house. There were predictions from their leaders that such a proposition not only would be snowed under, but on the other hand a majority would vote to make the law even more stringent by prohibiting American ships from having liquor aboard outside the three mile limit.

The more immediate consideration of the administration, however, relates to the court's ruling followed between now and the time congress meets again in December. It is expected that the statement under preparation by Secretary Mellon at the treasury will set forth in some detail the enforcement plans that are to go into effect as soon as the supreme court hands down its edict to the lower court in New York, where the cases decided yesterday originated.

Decatur, Ill., May 1.—Mayor Elmer Elder and four newly elected commissioners took office here today without demonstration. Former Mayor Charles M. Borchers, who recently completed his second term in office will return to the practice of law.

HOLLY ROLLERS ARE RESCUED FROM MOB BY POLICE FORCE

Were Beseigned In Second Floor of Church in New Jersey

(By The Associated Press)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 1.—Four hundred "holly rollers" were imprisoned on the upper floor of their Pillar of Fire church at Bound Brook, near here, at midnight, while the local police force with drawn guns held a bay and a menacing mob which gathered after a riot which occurred while a meeting was in progress.

Three of the non-members were badly beaten and numerous combatants on both sides were less seriously hurt in the melee in which stones, chairs and sticks were hurled. The women church members fought at the side of their men, until police arrived and the angry citizens went outside.

The "Holly Rollers," men and women, locked themselves in the second story when a crowd estimated at 500 non-members precipitated the riot when some of them took exception to a remark made by a church speaker lauding the Ku Klux Klan.

Some time ago the "Holly Rollers" who maintain a colony of about 500 members, advertised tonight's meeting as an attempt to organize a unit of the Ku Klux Klan and invitations were issued to a select number. They said an unnamed but prominent official of the organization would speak.

Some individuals and small groups accepted the invitations and followed the parade of the "holly rollers" attired in their blue uniforms, high leather boots and helmets, to the temple to-night, but other townsfolk gathered elsewhere and marched to the church soon after the services had started.

The raiders marched up the center aisle just as the speaker asserted "every one hundred percent American should join the Klan."

The church was in an uproar in an instant, pieces of furniture were hurled and fists piled. In a few minutes all the church furniture was demolished, all the windows broken and the interior was a shambles. Police who did not arrive until the battle was under way, fought to separate the belligerents driving the raiders outside while the church members fled up stairs.

DEAD CHICKENS MAY LEAD TO SOLUTION OF AURORA MYSTERY

Blood in Lincoln Bungalow
Will Be Tested.

(By The Associated Press)
AURORA, Ill., May 1.—Investigation of the mystery surrounding the "bloody bungalow" and the disappearance of Warren Lincoln, Aurora attorney and horticulturist, shifted today when police found in a chicken pen the possible source of the blood smears found near the house.

The cases decided yesterday originated with the police. The case involved the disappearance of a pair of chickens, recently killed and covered with blood. With this discovery a chemical analysis was ordered immediately made of the blood found about the house to determine whether it was that of a human being.

Among the articles to be examined will be a stained Indiana club found in a near-by greenhouse and the man's night shirt and cap dragged from an old cellar near the house. It also was determined to the police that there had been in financial difficulties and was overdrawn at his bank and that he was seen burning something in the furnace of the greenhouse Sunday morning.

Two large buckles and a large button similar to those worn on a woman's coat were found in the ashes. This was believed to indicate that the material he was burning might be his estranged wife's clothes which are reported missing.

PIGS GROW FAST DOWN IN TEXAS

(By The Associated Press)
WACO, TEXAS, May 1.—Pigs belonging to Vick Hill of Chalk Bluff, Texas, near here tonight at the end of 56 days were weighing 593 pounds, 143 pounds more than the previous world's record for the same period of time, claimed for an Indiana litter.

The Indiana claim resulted in a large cash prize, offered by various stock raising organizations. Prizes go to the litters weighing the most at the end of 180 days. The present title holding Indiana litter weighed 3640 pounds at the end of 180 days. Hill's pigs have 124 days to go, with a fat load of 134 pounds.

SMALL-BRUNDAGE BATTLE IS STILL RAGING FIERCELY

Both Parties Issue Strong State- ments.

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—The battle of official communications and public statements, waged between Governor Len Small and Attorney General Edward J. Brundage since last Friday when Governor Small demanded from Brundage a detailed accounting of money spent by his department, went into its third round today with each official charging the other with law breaking. The controversy is over a legislative appropriation of almost $1,000,000 to the attorney general's office.

The governor publicly stated today that Brundage had violated the constitution by refusing to render the accounting, and Brundage replied that "the price of the signing of the appropriation bill for the million in the form of a general assembly would be the dismissal of the civil suits against the governor."

Both the governor and the attorney general intimated that the criminal code should be invoked against each other.

Governor Small said the state constitution gave him a clear right to ask for an accounting from the attorney general but the latter, instead of complying with the request, had answered with vituperation and slander.

"The reply of the attorney general not only refused the information requested," said the governor's statement issued today, "but consists principally in an insulting and vituperative attack upon the position of the governor. He was requested for information and he replied with slander and abuse; and in the midst of his vile attacks he fears that the people may be hoodwinked into believing that there is personal controversy between the governor and the attorney general. If any people of the state of Illinois have heretofore questioned the existence of personal animosity on the part of the attorney general toward the governor, such doubt must be finally and clearly removed by the letter of the attorney general himself."

Request Not In Good Faith
In a statement issued tonight Attorney General Brundage charged that the request of the governor was neither within his constitutional powers nor made in good faith.

"The governor's letter did not call for information contemplated by the constitution," said Attorney General Brundage, "but contained a request for a detailed report of every dollar expended by the attorney general's office for the past six years, coupled with a demand for the names of persons supposed to have made campaign contributions to me. I have always been and now am ready to furnish any information to the governor which is contemplated by the constitution, but I must decline to furnish a report not required or intended by the constitution. The mere reading of the request of the governor plainly discloses that it is not made in good faith and that it is not within the terms of the constitution."

"Not one penny of the Illinois treasury has been used in prosecuting the case against the governor. Hence the reference by the governor to Section 298 of the criminal code is inapplicable, insofar as this office is concerned, but no doubt would be pertinent to the payment of over $20,000 by former State Treasurer Small to his Kankakee county friends, the details of which are set forth in my former letter."

"In this connection it should be noted that the governor does not deny these payments to his Kankakee county friends and he does not deny that representations were made to me by some of his friends, that the price of the signing of the appropriation bill for the attorney's office in the form passed by the general assembly would be the dismissal of the civil suits against him."

"The governor's statement also fails to show that while he was there he had on hand twice as much money as any former state treasurer, and that his last payment of interest amounting to over $143,000 was not made until fifteen months after he retired from that office, and only after public charges had been made during his term."

LIGHTNING CAUSES
DISASTROUS FIRE
New Ulm, Minn., May 1.—Fire caused by lightning tonight destroyed a group of three modern barns, a herd of Holstein prize winning cattle, a herd of high grade Poland China swine and a number of horses on the stock farm of Ferdinand Roman just outside the city limits of New Ulm. The loss is estimated at $100,000, partly insured.

Small's $100,000,000 Bond Issue Endorsed

(By The Associated Press)
Springfield, May 1.—Governor Small's proposal for a $100,000,000 road bond issue, introduced in the senate by Senator Meents, republican, Ashkum, received the unanimous endorsement this afternoon of the dreads and bridges committee. After hearing Frank T. Sheets state superintendent of highways, explain the bill and the means of paying for the road construction numerous amendments adding some mileage to the routes named were voted. Senators Glenn, republican, Murphysboro; Swift, republican, Libertyville and Buck, republican, Monmouth, who before today had expressed opposition to the bond proposal, voted to report the bill favorably. The support was pointed to the administration leaders as indicative of the bill's success in the senate.

The Glackin measure as introduced appropriated $30,000 for expenses of the commission but was amended tonight to give $15,000. An amendment by Senator McMurray republican, Chicago, to make the sum $20,000 was tabled.

Representative Devine, Dixon, house minority leader, failed today to reduce it when the state treasurer's appropriation bill. By heavy votes the rejected several of Devine's amendments.

Tomorrow morning the senate executive committee will consider the resolution of Senator Shaw, democrat, Harrisburg, asking investigation of the methods of fixing mainline tests at the National Stockyards, East, St. Louis. Dr. Kirby, state veterinarian, will appear before the committee at that time.

To Report Ex Fixing Bill
The house revenue committee this afternoon voted to report favorably the free bill fixing tax rates for cities. The Chicago rate fixed for three years more at a maximum of $1.85, and the downstate maximum rate at $1.33 1-3. Mayor E. E. Crabbree of Jacksonville, representing the Illinois municipal league, asked that the bill be amended to make the downstate rate permanent and this was done. Under the present law, the rates revert to lower figures at expiration of the time limit unless each legislature renews them.

Alderman Ross Woodhull of the Chicago city council finance committee said the new administration hoped to reduce taxes in the next few years and that it did not want the $1.85 rate made permanent.

The house today accepted an invitation extended by representative Luker of the city of Danville to attend the celebration in honor of Uncle Joe Cannon's eighty seventh birthday next Monday. Republican leader Little moved to accept the invitation and democratic leader Devine seconded it. Applause followed the characterization of Mr. Cannon as one of the foremost political figures in the country.

Advanced Several Bills
Meeting at 5:30 P. M., for a short session the senate advanced several bills and passed two. The latter were the Meents bill appropriating $3,000,000 for the maintenance of state roads during the biennium, and the Meents bill providing that the county boards shall maintain certain roads and bridges.

THE UNITED STATES
No Disturbance Are Reported from the Various Cities
(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 1.—May Day passed quietly with no disturbances of any consequence reported anywhere in the country today.

In Chicago police were called upon to control a crowd struggling to enter a theatre where Eugene V. Debs was speaking after the theatre had been filled.

In New York seven thousand union members of the building crafts celebrated by demanding and receiving a dollar a day increase in wages. Reports from International Falls, Minnesota, told of threat poses for the settlement there tomorrow of the strike of paper mill workers.

The outbreak of a labor dispute in Denver threatened to hamper building activities when carpenters dropped their tools because of a dispute for an increase from $8 to $9 a day in wages.

Salt Lake City a strike of miners and other employees in the mines of the Bingham district of Utah called by the I. W. W., failed to materialize and state officials were confident no trouble would result.

On the coast operators of some lumber camps failed to break a strike of forest workers called by the I. W. W. May day in state of preparedness while shipping generators affected by the strike of marine workers called by the same body expressed little concern.

WILL VIGOROUSLY
ENFORCE DRY LAW
(By The Associated Press)

Explaining that the supreme court mandate would become effective in thirty days, Mr. Daugherty in a formal statement in which he discussed yesterday's decision at considerable length declared that "every agency at my command will be used to enforce the law without favor, partiality or discrimination."

EVANSTON POLICE MAKING PROBE IN DEATH OF STUDENT

Twenty-five North- western Students Before Officials.

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 1.—Twenty-five Northwestern University students were questioned today in connection with the death of Leighton Mount, whose skeleton was found buried beneath rocks and sand beneath a lake break-water at Evanston yesterday.

The police expressed the belief that Mount's death resulted from a Freshman-Sophomore clash in the fall of 1921 and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, ordered an assistant to attend the inquest set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"I am inclined to believe from the reports I have received that it is certainly a case of murder," said Oscar Wolfe, Cook county coroner who took personal charge of the investigation. "The peculiar position of the skeleton and the fact that it was weighted with stones precludes the idea of suicide in my opinion."

Charles W. Leggett, chief of police of Evanston, expressed the belief that Mount's death was accidental and may have resulted from injuries received from a class fight which took place the night he disappeared. An investigation at the time was dropped when reports were received that the boy had written to a young woman that he was disappointed and "was going away."

"It must have been an accident," said Chief Leggett, "for students would not deliberately kill one another. Then frightened by what had happened, those responsible must have taken the body out to the lake shore and hidden it. That's how it appears to me. Two or three boys were necessary to drag the body to its hiding place and cover it with stones."

Also the skeleton was found yesterday by a twelve year old boy, positive identification was not completed until late this afternoon when a Chicago dentist identified the dental work in the skull of the skeleton as work he had done for Mount. The first identification was made from a belt buckle bearing the initials "L M" and a few bits of clothes by the boy's mother.

Meanwhile University authorities are investigating the death of another student, Louis Aubrey, killed in an automobile accident after a class fight, abolished for all time class wars and rushes and hazing on the campus. At a solemn chapel assembly Walter Dill Scott, president of the university informed the student body that Sophomores and Freshmen are to be deprived of all social privileges for the rest of the year and that the Freshman cap-burning ceremonial scheduled for tomorrow cannot be held.

AUTOMOBILE PLUNGED INTO CHICAGO RIVER LATE TUESDAY NIGHT

Several Persons are Believed to Have Been Occupants of Car

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 1.—An automobile, believed to have been occupied by several persons, according to a report to police, plunged into the Chicago river 300 feet east of the Michigan boulevard bridge shortly before midnight. A fire tug and three other tugs were dispatched to the scene. One man said he saw the car disappear beneath the water. Another said he heard the splash. They notified the police.

The driver of the car is believed to have been unable to see the river because of darkness. Lawrence Staskh, a fireman for the Kirk Hoke company, bordering on the river on the north side said he saw the car in its plunge. The spot where the car is reported to have gone into the stream is in the rear of the soap works. Fresh automobile tracks were found there leading to the river bank.

Just prior to the reported accident the bridge had been raised to permit the passage of a sand barge. It was being lowered, the two witnesses said, when the accident occurred.

The searchers located the car with grappling hooks, tearing away a portion of the top. A derick was called to lift the car. A right hand glove, supposed to have been worn by one of the occupants, also was fished from the river. As yet the police have not been able to ascertain how many persons went down with the car.

Police believe that any persons in the car were submerged before they could shout for aid. The fire tug and other boats called to locate the car began dragging the river. Staskh said he saw the rear end of the car disappear and that it appeared to be a pleasure vehicle. He did not see its occupants.

Underneath the bridge there is a road. It is presumed that the car was being driven along this roadway, the driver failing to notice that he had passed under the bridge. At the rear of the soap works, where there is a cinder driveway, the car was apparently turned south to cross the river. There are no lights along the roadway.

GENERAL DAWES MAKES PREDICTION

CHICAGO, May 1.—A prediction was made tonight by Charles G. Dawes, former director of the national budget, that both the democratic and republican party would demand the five plank platform advocated by the "Minute Men of the Constitution," a recently formed organization to function in the state of Illinois and sponsored by Mr. Dawes and a group of friends. He was speaking before a crowd of approximately 20,000 persons meeting at Evanston, a suburb.

Because the meeting hall would not accommodate all his audience Mr. Dawes gave a second talk on the purposes of the organization in the street. The meeting was preceded by a parade of company No. 1 of Evanston led by company No. 2 of Chicago it was estimated that 3,000 persons were in the line of march.

The five plank platform of the association as announced last week after an organization meeting which the organization desires to be adopted by the two major political parties, advocated renewed and increased respect for the law and the constitution, condemnation of all influences and agencies which breed class religious discriminations, recognizing the rights of individuals to join with others to defend lawfully their rights and advance their economic social and political interests, endorsement of the government's announced position of the right of a citizen to cease work, irrespective of whether he is a member of labor or other organization, placing of loyalty to the government beyond that of any civil or industrial organization working for the interest of special groups or classes.

The two major parties will be asked to include the five planks in their platform at their future conventions, Mr. Dawes said by those who have lined themselves in support of the Minute Men's demands.

BODY OF CHINESE
STUDENT IS FOUND
Chicago, May 1.—The body of Yu Sun Esune, a student of political economy at the University of Chicago, was taken from the lagoon at Jackson Park tonight by the police who expressed the opinion that it had been in the water for about three weeks.

"I think he committed suicide because he was unable to grasp the American ways of doing things," said T. S. Shoa, a medical student at the University whose name and address was found in the dead youth's clothing.

"He came to Chicago two months ago from the University of California. His home was in Tsinan, Twan, China." The University authorities had no knowledge of his disappearance.

LONDON EDITOR IS ALL "HET" UP OVER DECISION

High Handed Piece of Arrogance To- ward Foreigners.

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 1.—"A high handed piece of arrogance toward foreigners," is the way The Star today characterized the decision of the United States supreme court against the transportation of liquor within the American three mile limit by American or foreign vessels. The Star, which is the only London newspaper thus far to make an editorial expression on the matter says:

"The United States is of all civilized states the most opposed to the Russian soviet government, yet the two countries are now as one."

"The decision of the soviet government to seize and imprison the crew of a British trawler caught fishing within a limit of twelve miles is simply a piece of high handed arrogance in the face of the plain doctrine of modern international law that the limit of territorial waters is three miles."

"The decision of the United States supreme court yesterday that neither American nor foreign ships may carry intoxicating liquors into American territorial waters or American ports is an equally high handed piece of arrogance toward foreigners."

"This is now no question between the relative merits of the wets and dries; it is an attempt to apply an American municipal law to foreign ships which are by international law parts of their national territory—while they are in American waters and ports."

"It is admitted that no foreign ship may use its national charter to land prohibited goods into a country whose port it enters or to shelter fugitives from its laws, or do any act which conflicts with the peace and order of that country. Therefore any system however strict which prevents smuggling liquor from foreign liners to American soil or which seals under bond the convivial stores of a liner as soon as it reaches the three mile limit is quite justifiable."

Fears Misunderstandings
"But the claim to prevent foreign liners from bringing liquor into American ports under bond, as a minority of the supreme court recognizes unjust and unreasonable interference and is apt to lead to international misunderstandings. It claims the right to decide the dietary of the passengers of a foreign ship after it has left American waters until its next visiting port, perhaps 1,000 miles away."

"It simply tramples on the right of foreign ships, sailors and passengers with a freedom and violence which enable us to understand the value of independent protests which during the nineteenth century issued from American lips in regard to England's enforcement of her maritime law."

"It is especially arrogant in regard to ships of Italy, which by Italian law are compelled, if they carry Italian crews, to supply rations of wine to the crews during a voyage and which will now be unable to carry any wine for the voyage back to Italy."

"It is even questionable, we imagine, whether the famous board of trade lime juice which our ships are forced to carry may not incur the penalties of the American courts if found among ships' stores, since it contains a small proportion of alcohol."

"The court's decision is that of a majority of the judges, and is based on principles which, if extended to their logical conclusion would soon render maritime commerce an international danger."

"TOLD YOU SO"

How many days since you have thought of Coud? He is almost forgotten. To endure persistently in American memory, one must be a baseball player, a prizefighter, a stage or movie star, a theatrical scientist or medical man—or the inventor or marketer of a breakfast food, beauty lotion or some mechanical device that can be sold cheaply.

A reader, one of the wise few who will get permanent good from Coud's system of harnessing the imagination, sends a letter announcing his discovery that the original disciple of the "Coud" method of treating ailments by auto-suggestion was—Socrates!

He died 2322 years ago.

Xenophon, Greek historian and militarist, wrote in his "Memorabilia" that Socrates one day said to him:

"I consider that those live best who study best to become as good as possible; and that those live with most pleasure who feel the most assurance that they are daily growing better and better."

That sounds familiar, strikingly like Coud's "Day by day, in every way, I grow better and better."

Coud, of course, never claimed that he originated the idea, but instead popularized it by giving it a new twist. Hudson had the same idea 31 years ago. So did others, farther back, on through the misty ages. Socrates may have picked it up in the writings of some ancient who died centuries before Socrates was born.

Ten thousand years ago, and more, they probably had epidemics of the Coud idea. The orientals, especially.

Thousands of years from now, the Coud idea will be resurrected and have flash-in-the-pan epidemics of popularity.

What a pity, that these good ideas cannot stay with us permanently instead of visiting occasionally and departing before they become indelible!

Through the ages, experience has taught certain lessons which the wise have put in the form of proverbs. Such saws as "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," "Honesty is the best policy," "Don't make a mountain out of a mole-hill."

All this wisdom is available to us constantly. But, as with the Socrates-Coud idea, we most of the time ignore what was found to be truthful by previous generations who got hard bumps in the finding. "Old fog" notions, we call them. So did past generations, and so will future.

We forget or ignore the proved wisdom because each generation thinks it's the smartest ever. We take a chance, go contrary to proved wisdom—and land on our heads.

Success and happiness are easy to reach; the rule's simple.

Albert Hoagland is reported as improving at Our Saviour's hospital. His mother, Mrs. John Hoagland paid him a visit recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Self called on James Gibson, who is a patient at a Jacksonville sanatorium, on Sunday, and found him in a very serious condition.

MODERATION

By Berton Braley

SOME fellows plead for "just one" of your glances, Asking to play with you, once in a while; Others implore for occasional chances

When they may bask in the light of your smile. That's fair enough, they are modest in pleading. I'm a bit different, constantly I'm Making it plain to you—am I succeeding?

All that I'm asking is all of your time!

"GIVE me a thought, now and then," say your wooers, "I can't expect such an awful lot more."

I don't resemble your other pursuers. "Think of me only," is what I implore! Think of me night-times and think of me day-times.

All of my mind with your glamor is fraught; So I nyrour quiet, your dull or your gay times.

All that I'm asking is all of your thought.

OTHERS may plead for a share of affection, Asking for "only a bit of your heart," Though it be merely the tiniest section!

I want the whole of it, not just a part! All that I ask for is all of your leisure, All of your time and your love and—gee whizz, What I desire is beyond any measure.

All that I ask for is all that there is!

LEGION IN BUSINESS AND SOCIAL MEETING

Musical Organizations Furnish Program at Meeting of American Legion Post—Decided to Offer Prizes for Large Delegations at Dedication Ceremonies.

A good crowd and good music were features of the American Legion's monthly business meeting last night. Large delegations very generously gave their services for a concert at the hall, and the made quartet from the high school gave several numbers.

This quartet consists of Ralph Corbridge, Russel Deatherage, Harry Stone and John Morris, and has been selected to represent the school in the meet at Inchester.

In the business session the Legion perfected plans for participation in the Memorial day ceremonies. Further arrangements for the big dedication jubilee on June 15 were also made. It was decided to offer two prizes, one of $25 to the Legion post outside of Jacksonville bringing the largest delegation in proportion to its membership. The other is a prize of $25 to go to the town bringing the largest body of its citizens in proportion to its population.

Dr. E. L. Hall, managing officer of the State hospital has announced that a noon lunch will be served on the grounds to all ex-convicts from outside of the city who are visitors on dedication day.

Following the meeting last night the post provided rather elaborate refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee, cigarettes and cigars.

FOUND ENGLISH CHAIR AT U. OF C.

Early Student at Woman's College Gives $100,000 to Endowment Fund of Coast University.

The announcement recently made that Mrs. William Beckman, famous California writer, had given $100,000 to the University of California to establish a chair of English, has local interest from the fact that Mrs. Beckman as Miss Nellie Sims Marshall was a student at Illinois Woman's college here in the year 1868-9.

The San Francisco Examiner tells of Mrs. Beckman's generous gift.

"Decision of Mrs. William Beckman, California writer and widow of the pioneer founder of the People's Bank at Sacramento, to establish a chair of the English language and literature at the University of California, was announced yesterday."

The endowment, amounting to $100,000, will be known by the donor's name, and the terms of the gift were purposely made broad so that the fund may genuinely assist the literary development of this State.

"Mrs. Beckman, who lives at the Stewart Hotel, was the first president of the Tuesday club of Sacramento. In 1899 and 1900, travelling widely, she visited 22 countries and wrote of her travels in various American magazines and newspapers. Her first book, "Backsheel—A Woman's Wanderings," was the outcome of this tour, and was followed by several other volumes.

"I have wanted for several years to make a gift to the public in the way that would do the most good for the things in which I am interested," she said. "I thought of a monument, but finally decided that the English language would outlast any monument and that money given to the University of California would earn big returns in helping young people of talent toward success in literature."

CITY OFFICIALS AT SPRINGFIELD HEARING Mayor E. E. Crabtree was in Springfield yesterday to appear with officers of many other cities before a general assembly committee favoring certain revenue bills that affect municipalities. The several measures which will aid cities in securing revenue were all reported out favorably.

Mr. Crabtree attended the committee hearing as the president of the Illinois Municipal League. A delegation from Chicago was present to urge before the committee the passage of a law providing for a special zoo tax in Chicago. One of the group there to urge this bill was John T. McCutcheon, famous Tribune cartoonist. Mr. McCutcheon, who made a brief talk in support of the zoo bill, was given a round of applause by the city representatives and in acknowledgment made a few remarks.

OLD JACKSONVILLE IN WAR TIMES

(BY ENSLEY MOORE)

Member Illinois State Historical Society

Jacksonville has always been characterized by a fine public activity. This has been seen in war times, when our people were always ready to do their part, and generally even more than their patriotic duty.

There were no white residents here before the War of 1812, but about that time the Indians got troublesome south of here, and the Territorial Governor sent Rangers out from the neighborhood of Edwardsville, who pursued the Redskins up into this region, and an Indian was killed up north of here, on the creek thereafter called "Indian" from that fatality.

But the aborigines had not yet left the northern and northwestern parts of the state, and Black Hawk was one of their leaders there.

Black Hawk

The Sacs and Foxes, under the leadership of the British ally Black Hawk, joined the English in the War of 1812, and made trouble for the pioneers coming into this state—or territory then—and Black Hawk seemed never to become friendly to our people.

Black Hawk's full name was "Makabimeshekiakak," meaning "The Black Sparrow Hawk." This interesting man kept up war against the Americans for nearly two years after the British had quit the contest, and his antagonism was maintained down to the "hurtles" when it burst into war.

All this section was aroused, and the supply of soldiers, captains, majors, colonels, and even generals was prolific.

Duncan Became a General.

And there were others from other parts of the state: Zachary Taylor came to our help, and his son-in-law, Jeff Davis, was in his regular detachment.

Major Robert Anderson was another of his officers, and the neighborhood here gave a Captain, who was one Abraham Lincoln.

Notwithstanding the array of great men in command this war was more noise than real action, and while prolonged off and on for about three years, it ended by the withdrawal of the Indians to the west of the Mississippi.

Our Next Conflict

The next war was also along the banks of the Mississippi, and not even as important in events as the Black Hawk disturbances.

It was known as the Mormon War and came to a head at Carthage in 1844, by the death of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet, and his brother, who were shot at the jail at Carthage, Hancock County.

Mormons turned out military companies and the usual complement of officers, one of whom was William J. Wyatt of Franklin.

VOLUNTEERS OFFER CHILDREN PRIZES

School Pupils Will Aid Tag Day by Contest Saturday—Merchants Contribute Awards.

The committee representing the Volunteers of America "Heart Tag Day" to be held here on Saturday, announced that this is to be a children's drive to help children, little ones less fortunate than themselves, for the work is to be done entirely by grade boys and girls under the direction of a local leader.

Invitations to help sell the tags will be sent to a number of young people and as an incentive as well as a reward for their efforts a number of pretty and useful prizes and movie tickets have been generously offered by local merchants and theatre managers.

For the one who secures the largest sum for the tags, F. J. Waddell & Co., will give a vanity case. The second prize will be a Brownie kodak from the Coover Drug Co. Brady Brothers, hardware, offers a pair of roller skates for the third winner, while Muller and Hamilton gives a two round box of chocolates for the fourth prize. A fountain pen and a silver Eversharp pencil will be the two last prizes given by the Long Pharmacy.

Those who do not win prizes, but who secure at least $3.00 for their tags will receive passes for movie tickets at the Grand, Scott's Rialto or Majestic theatres.

The work of tag selling will be done largely by the residential districts and the committees hope everyone will be prepared to encourage the young workers with a quarter, dime or half dollar. No sum will be too large and none too small to help this good cause.

S. W. NICHOLS WRITES AGAIN FROM TUCSON

Tucson, Ariz., April 26, 1923

No. 119 East First Street,

Dear Journal:

Tucson is a city nearly twice the size of Jacksonville and in many respects has things in proportion. I think the most notable evidence of progress and enterprise is the fine Scottish Rite Temple which is indeed an honor to the fraternity. It is centrally located and superbly fitted throughout. It has an ample recreation or social room supplied with a large list of best periodicals, a retiring room, smaller apartments for committee purposes and fine, large apartment for work. There are two blue lodges, chapter and commandery here and then the higher orders and all have large memberships and are in a flourishing condition.

I have attended several meetings and have assisted some in the work and have found whole souled, genuine brothers among the members while the gatherings are quite cosmopolitan as the city attracts persons from all over the land. The register will show visitors from Texas, Maine, New York, Ohio, and all over the northern and middle west part of the land and one evening I sat next to a gentleman who said he was a "Greaser" belonging to a lodge in Chihuahua, Mexico, and he was a very pleasant, agreeable person to meet.

I think our leading places of worship will rather excel any in architecture and general appliances anything they have here but some of their places of business are elegant and ahead of our place. There are so many automobiles in the city that the street car system is not very elaborate and for very good reasons.

The city has been almost prolific in the matter of street paving. The streets are wide and the asphalt extends from curb to curb being forty feet wide in many cases. Even where there is no paving the natural surface makes a very good highway.

Just now the city is in the midst of a chautauqua course among other attractions and when it comes to that I am proud of home by comparison though it is possible that so far west as good talent can hardly be expected as farther east. The affair is being put on by a syndicate and the program contains some very good numbers. One feature was a young lady, Miss Beatrice Walton. She was a moderately good pianist but the chief feature of her effort was an impassioned advocacy of the league of nations which seemed to me a bit far fetched and out of place. That part of the affair was received with moderate applause.

A large part of one program was given up to the children and for the benefit of my young friends at home I want to tell something about it for nearly a hundred school children had a part in it.

For the older people there was a good musical number of about half an hour and then the small folks had their inning. A young lady arrayed in baggy trousers and long coat all of bright yellow with stars scattered here and there over the costume, and a tall, peaked hat, appeared accompanied by a meek little satellite similarly arrayed. They were supposed to have come down from the skies and to have a lot of things to show. First came the band with a melody array of all sorts of instruments, the chief music being made by the piano behind the curtain. Then came Jumbo making all sorts of fun with his awkward performances. Two light and airy dancers followed and then a group of bears made everybody laugh by their quaint performances. Two monkeys and five apes came next and then three tremendously big frogs convulsed the audience.

Three monkeys riding each a bicycle were funny and then three kangaroos, a tiger and three white rabbits very cute. A huge ostrich very ridiculous in his performances followed. Four black baboons were followed by a huge giraffe which was immensely funny. Some airy dancers were followed by a take off of tight rope walking by six girls and then some sylph like dancers were pretty.

Three Japanese girls in a cake walk were followed by six gypsies and the final number was a clown who did all sorts of funny things. A grand parade of all the foregoing completed the program for the occasion.

We have temporarily a very interesting member of our household. Some years ago Mr. Reed built a school structure in Parker, of this state, a town on the Santa Fe railroad and the Colorado river. There he made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bush forming a pleasant friendship which has since been kept up. The lad is here for a time and I have found her interesting indeed. She was born in Hannanville, Mo., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. A. Trent who stood well in their home community. Their daughter, Nellie T. received a liberal education in the Tempe Normal, business college in Los Angeles and finally in the University of California. At the age of 24 she was married in Mesa, Ariz., to an enterprising gentleman, J. E. Bush, and is the mother of a bright boy seven years old. Not satisfied with merely domestic duties which a small sum of money would pay for by other hands she at once put her hand, not exactly to the oar but the wheel in the pilot house of the "Nellie T." a prosperous ferry boat to take passengers across the great stream.

She is a mere amateur but has a pilot's license for all the inland waters of the country and knows how to use it. She took her pilot examination at San Pedro. She is popular with the people of Parker and easily makes friends with the many tourists who cross at that place. Previous to her marriage she taught school five years and -one after, in the region of the Salt River valley. Desiring a still wider field of usefulness she accepted the office of justice of the peace in Parker and didn't dispense with justice but meted it out fearlessly to all who came under her jurisdiction. Among her first trials were many amusing and interesting experiences. The son of a wealthy man had committed a breach of the peace but his father supposed of course the boy would be let off with a reprimand and was wrath when the law was meted out to him without fear or favor and swore he would get even with that pettifog justice but his time has not come yet.

They do tell just a few funny happenings of the early days of her incumbency of the office. She was just a small bit excited when first called on to perform the marriage ceremony and the gossips do say she forgot that she was not sentencing a criminal and said: "May heaven have mercy on your souls."

One time an innocent widower wedded a lady known to have a somewhat irascible temper and a nimble tongue. After the ceremony the official remarked to him: "You are now at the end of your troubles."

About a year after the man asked her what she meant by that remark and she replied: "I didn't say which end."

After her term of justice had expired she did some law practice before her successor and that inspired her to know more of law so she took a six month's correspondence course and is now studying at the state university.

Three years ago she decided to run on the Democratic ticket for the legislature from Yuma county and was elected and was again elected last fall.

Assuming as a matter of course that she would be bidable and do as she was told the party leadership rather slighted her at the first, but she soon let them know where she stood. While true to the principles of her organization she wears no party collar and the other law makers are well aware of it. While not at all masculine or mannish she has held her own in debate with any one and when she sees the slightest indication of any sort of underhanded or irregular work her sarcasm is something a victim doesn't care to encounter the second time.

She has a fine voice and a commanding presence and in a discussion she is logical without being pedantic or stilted.

The present Democratic governor was extremely anxious to get through certain bills abolishing a number of state boards so that he would have more places to fill with his friends but she was firm as adamant and utterly refused to be led by the nose and needless to say she is cordially hated by his excellency (?)

The welfare of the children and civic improvement receive her special attention and to these ends she devotes much time and thought.

With all her public life she is domestic in her tastes and in the house takes hold cheerfully and renders assistance in various ways.

In person she is rather above medium height, well built with an abundance of brown hair which she dresses in a pleasing manner. She looks rather profound with her tortoise rimmed spectacles, but they merely serve to keep inquisitive strangers in their place having no terrors for her friends and intimates.

She is well informed on general subjects and pleasant company socially, easily approached and affable to all with whom she meets. It is certainly a privilege to have made her acquaintance.

I have had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. S. M. Henderson and was glad to note her evident good health. Arizona seems surely to have agreed with her. Three of her family are located here in good positions and I suppose eventually Uncle Silas will follow. Morgan county will lose a very good citizen in that case but health must come first in all calculations.

I had a pleasant call from Father Connolly and should have gone to see him much sooner had I been in better condition. Morgan county has made a valuable contribution to Tucson in the person of that good man. His work has grown so great that he has been obliged to have an assistant, Father O'Malley, a very agreeable young man, whom I had the pleasure of meeting.

With the large parish and multifarious duties both men have plenty to do but working systematically they get thru with it all right. The fine, new church edifice to which I referred in my letters last year is well filled on Sundays and many other services are conducted there. Father O'Connell holds a well deserved high place in the esteem of Tucson citizens.

S. W. Nichols.

CATTLE MARKET PROSPECTS REVIEWED

John T. Alexander, Veteran Commission Man Outlines Conditions in Feeding Industry as He Sees Them.

Out of the addresses made at the semi-annual meeting of the Indiana Cattle association held recently at Purdue University was by John T. Alexander of the firm of Alexander, Conover & Martin. For years Mr. Alexander has been attending these meetings and always has a place on the program.

As a veteran commission merchant his views have weight. Mr. Alexander in discussing the livestock markets, especially with relation to cattle, said:

Cattle trade has been somewhat handicapped all winter by cheap pork. Under the circumstances it is surprising that cattle have sold as well as they did. Last December the Department of Agriculture threw a scare into feeding circles by announcing a 27 per cent increase in the fall stock cattle purchase, compared with 1921, stimulating early marketing to avoid running up a feed bill and avoid a series of heavy runs late in the winter and in the spring. This had the effect of equalizing distribution and stabilizing prices. Results show that the estimate was excessive as 67 markets received only 3 per cent more cattle during January, February and March than in 1921. Slaughter increased 9 per cent at the expense of the stocker and feeder movement which decreased 9 per cent compared with last year.

Low Long Fed Cattle

On April 1, the department of agriculture estimated, cattle on feed at 13 per cent more than a year ago but the grass has not been given credence by the trade. It is probable that more yearlings are in preparation for the butcher than a year ago but the prospective supply of long-fed cattle with weight is the smallest in many years. This does not necessarily imply beef shortage, as the trade is able to get along with fed steers weighing 1200 and up. At no time this year has there been an incentive to run into long feeds or carry heavy cattle, on the contrary feeders have taken the short route to market many making two and even three turns since last fall.

The recent advance in corn together with gradually rising stocker market has had the logical effect, not only of disposing short fed steers, but restricting replenishment of feed lots. The March movement of stockers and feeders was 28 per cent less than that of 1922 and the April movement has been correspondingly light. This may create a better selling condition in the fat cattle market as the summer works along as the industrial element is well employed at high wages, but to offset these wages, is the advancing cost of living in the cities especially in the matter of rents and a disposition among these well paid artisans and laborers to indulge in excessive recreation, by which production is reduced and spending increased. Everybody appears to be running a "river" nowadays and it is a sport that takes both time and money.

Prospects Fair
However, I feel moderately optimistic concerning the summer and fall cattle market. Pork in its various forms is cheap, but the public weariness of one article of food and it has been eating pork in enormous quantities all winter. If cattle supply could be reduced 10 to 15 per cent the market would immediately respond as every scrap of beef made has gone into immediate consumption recently. The coming season will furnish a test of the yearling market and it is my opinion that if feeders make their little cattle reasonably good, they will be well paid for the board bill.

It may be interesting to note that the cattle business has picked up all over the world during the past 60 days, after two years of demoralization, especially in South America and Australia. As to the domestic market do not overlook the fact that we have a population of over 100 million people constituting the greatest meat eating people in the world, placing beef makers of the United States in a strong strategic position.

The will of the late William L. Alexander has been filed for record in the office of County Clerk Riggs. Mr. Alexander after making provision for funeral expenses and indebtedness, bequeaths all his property of every kind to his wife, Mrs. Clara G. Alexander, who is named executrix of the will and to serve without bond.

Mr. Alexander made his will Sept. 12, 1922, the subscribing witnesses being Marie Riley and John A. Belletti.

The Rayborn Will

Another will just made a matter of record is that of Henry S. Rayborn. The testator made provision for the payment of debts and then bequeathed all of his property to his wife, Mrs. Ida E. Rayborn, for her life. Subject to the life estate of the wife, the property is to pass to the Farmers State Bank & Trust Co. as trustee. The property includes two tracts of land located in Sections 4 and 9 in Township 15-9.

The trustee is to handle the property and pay the net income to Ethel May Rayborn, daughter of the testator, during her lifetime. If the daughter has descendants the property is to pass to them. After the death of the daughter the trustee is required to sell the property and if the daughter is without descendants then one-half of the residue of the estate shall be paid to the Odd Fellows' Orphans Home for children at Lincoln and the other half to the Odd Fellows Home for the Aged at Mattoon, as permanent endowment funds for each institution. The bequests if made are to be designated as the Henry S. Rayborn and Ida E. Rayborn fund.

Item four of the will provides that subject to the life estate of the wife that all residue of the property of every kind shall pass to the daughter as her own estate.

Mrs. Rayborn is named executrix of the will and is to serve without bond. Mr. Rayborn made his will Dec. 14, 1918, with H. C. Clement, O. F. Buile and H. K. Chenoweth as witnesses to the signature.

WILL PROCEED WITH INJUNCTIONS CASES

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—Attorney General Daugherty declared tonight that the injunction proceeding in Chicago against leaders of railroad shopmen who were on strike last year "must be carried to a final conclusion in order that universal strikes which interfere with the transportation system of the country shall be a thing of the past."

In a statement the attorney general said he was determined that the prosecution should present the entire mass of evidence obtained "against those who were responsible for the chaos destruction of interstate commerce and the danger to life brought about by strike conditions, of 400,000 shopmen were directed by their leaders and radicals to lay down their tools crippling transportation system, impairing interstate commerce and threatening the food and supplies of the entire nation."

The attorney general said he was not surprised at the withdrawal of counsel for the labor leaders, as he had an intimation "as early as yesterday afternoon" that such a step might be taken.

MAY DAY MOVING RECORDS ARE BROKEN

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 1.—All May Day moving records were broken, storage houses were swamped and van men were worked late into the night caring for the 100,000 persons whom real estate men said sought homes.

The general exodus, however, was said to have had little or no interference in lowering rents, the movement being interpreted by experts as a readjustment—apartment residents moving into hotels and others "doubling up," with other families with room to spare.

Real estate men declaring that there were plenty of flats from $100 to $200 a month but there was a dearth of middle price apartments and homes despite a phenomenal increase in building activities during the year. Exports could not chop off lower rentals for at least two years more.

George J. Smith of Mt. Pulaski, former law partner of Mr. Lincoln brought suit for the complainant.

WAR AGAINST HIGH PRICES FOR SUGAR

New York, May 1.—The war against high prices for sugar and the boycott by consumers and the effect of the government's legal proceeding has had an unsettling effect on the market. Very few buyers were in evidence today and fall sales of Cuban sugar were reported at 6 1/2 cents cost and freight which represented a decline of 1/2 cent as compared with the last previous sale and about one-half a cent per pound as compared with the recent high record.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHOLERA CONDITIONS

Dr. A. C. Bolle Tells How to Prevent Hog Cholera—Pig Crop Normal in the County.

Recently in discussing hog cholera, Dr. A. C. Bolle stated that although the health of hogs in this country has been very good several cases of cholera have developed in the county, principally in the neighborhood of Murrayville.

Dr. Bolle reports a normal pig crop, although many early pigs were lost during the severe cold spells of late winter.

There seems to be an unusual number of sows that contract a deficiency disease, usually starting with extreme emaciation, deranged appetite, increased weakness, finally being unable to raise on their hind quarters. This occurs mostly in sows suckling large numbers of pigs. Upon evidence of approach of this trouble pigs should be taken away from the sows, and calcium, phosphorus, and feeds rich in vitamins, such as cod liver oil and yeast should be administered.

Cholera is the most fatal disease of swine. Practically every hog raiser is familiar with the tremendous losses produced by this disease. Despite the fact that it can be successfully controlled by the proper administration of anti-hog cholera serum and virus only a minor per cent of the hogs in the country are immunized. Several years ago the high price of serum and general lack of faith in the efficacy of the treatment caused owners to hesitate in taking up the then new treatment. Today, however, there are few indeed, who do not realize the value of proper vaccination. The price of serum, too has decreased steadily, until it is possible to vaccinate a weanling pig for about 45 cents, administering the proper dosage of reliable serum.

Pigs should be immunized early but preferably after weaning. As a rule, the most satisfactory age for vaccination is at the age of from eight to twelve weeks. In case cholera exists in the neighborhood, it may become necessary to treat even the youngest pigs. But in this case, pigs kept for breeding purposes must be re-treated after weaning, as pigs treated while suckling immune sows are not always rendered permanently immune, due to the fact that milk given by immune sows contains anti-bodies that prevent the administered virus from doing its full work, that is, causing a reaction.

Before serum and virus are administered, the owner should permit the veterinarian to make a careful examination of the herd. In sick herds, one or more animals should be sacrificed in order that a careful autopsy can be held. The proper administration of serum and virus is dependent upon a correct knowledge of conditions in the herd.

Pigs that are unthrifty, due either to infection with worms, or various infections other than cholera, such as swine plague, necrotic enteritis, mixed infection and similar conditions should not be double treated but given serum alone, if cholera protection is needed, and the other trouble corrected by hygiene, proper care, and the administration of indicated bacteria.

Above all, however, the main

WILD ANIMALS—The Polar Bear

Brrr! Did you ever wonder on a wintry day when the bitter winds sting your face and make you shiver under your warmest coat how a polar bear can live in the extreme cold and perpetual ice and snow of the polar regions. The polar bear has one advantage at least, in living in the barren ice wastes; he has very few enemies to bother him, for he is one of a very few living things that can exist there. With his creamy white coat of long thick fur and many layers of fat beneath his hide he can slip about on the ice without a shiver.

He looks very much like his cousins, the brown bear and the grizzly, but he is handsomer and more graceful. Unlike other bears, the soles of his feet are covered with thick, close-set hair, almost like velvet. This protects him from slipping on the ice and tumbling into the deep jagged ravines.

Bears usually live on a diet of plant food, but the polar bear can scold find even a bit of moss, so he must find his food in the sea. He is a swift swimmer. When he hunts for seal he dives and swims under water until he comes very close to the seal and then clutches it with his long claws and powerful jaws. He swims ashore with his catch shakes himself, and proceeds with his dinner. It is lucky for the polar bear that his fur is so long and thick to become wet when he is in the water, for if it did it would quickly freeze into a solid mass of ice.

Often when a polar bear is sitting at the edge of a hole in the ice waiting to grab a fish that may swim by, the ice floe breaks and he is carried out to sea. Not very many are lost this way, however, for the polar bear can swim for miles, diving and swimming under the ice floes.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Joint Committee From War Veterans' Organizations of City Met Last Night and Arranged For Ceremonies to be Held on May 30th.

The joint committee on arrangements for Decoration Day services, composed of members of the G. A. R., U. S. W. V. and American Legion, met last night in American legion hall to discuss plans. The G. A. R. were not represented at last night's meeting.

It was tentatively decided that the different phases of arrangements be divided among the three organizations, the G. A. R. to engage the speaker of the day; the U. S. W. V. to choose the marshal of the day, he to choose his aides, who will then constitute the parade committee; the American Legion to furnish the firing squad and the music for the day.

It is the intention to furnish a platform for the use of the speakers at East cemetery, as with the usual crowd it is impossible for all to hear much of the services when no platform is used. It was also suggested, but no final action taken that the services at the church be eliminated and all services be held at the cemetery. Arrangements will be made for automobiles for the members of the older organizations.

An invitation is extended to all patriotic lodge and trade organizations, and to all schools and institutions in the city to make preparations for participation in the parade.

The tentative plans call for a detail from the three organizations to hold services at the west cemetery in the morning; the main public services in the afternoon at Jacksonville cemetery; after which details will go to Arcadia to hold memorial services here.

The committeemen present last night were: Samuel C. Hunt and W. A. Westrope of the United Spanish War Veterans; and Elmer J. Henderson, chairman of the committee. Also present were: E. E. Seigner, Rev. G. E. Skelton and Clarence Siegfried of the American Legion.

DEPARTMENT WORKERS IN GOOD CONFERENCE

Sunday School People Hold Annual Meeting at Westminster Church—Debate Proves Humorous and Instructive.

The Home Department of the Morgan county Sunday School association held their regular spring conference in the parlors of Westminster church yesterday following a dinner at 12:30. Mrs. Charles Hopper, the superintendent, presided and announced the program. A violin solo played by Miss Alva Crum, with Miss Wilma Crum as accompanist, was the first number on the program. The devotional exercises were led by Rev. T. H. Tull.

Rev. George E. Stickney was introduced as a representative of the Ministerial association and as chairman of the debate which was the principal feature of the afternoon. This had been arranged by the association on the question, "Resolved: That the home department is more important to the Sunday school than the cradle roll." The affirmative speakers were Dr. F. M. Rule and Rev. T. W. Smith. The negative was upheld by Rev. G. W. Randle and Rev. W. E. Spoons.

Both sides made strong points and humor into their remarks. The debate brought out a very profitable discussion of two important phases of Sunday school work. By a majority vote the affirmative was given the decision.

At the close of the debate each one present at the conference was asked to write on a slip of paper a question on any phase of the work which they wished explained. These questions formed the basis for an hour's helpful and instructive discussion. About twenty-five workers were present from the city and county. Mrs. Hopper was unanimously selected as chairman for the coming year. Mrs. Arthur E. Powell of Woodson, superintendent of the children's department of the county work, was present and told the conference something of the work of the cradle-roll. Mrs. Gertrude Richardson supported her in her remarks by a brief talk.

Evidence in Zachary Trial Is Being Taken

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
WINCHESTER, May 1.—Pronounced efforts to prove to the jury that Luther A. Crawford, of Morgan county, who was slain Nov. 16, 1921, by Samuel T. Zachary, had not been indulging in strong drink on the day of his death were made by the prosecution in the trial of Zachary here this afternoon.

Three witnesses, including Crawford's wife, testified that they had been with him in Jacksonville on the day he was shot and that they saw him take no intoxicating liquor nor did he show the effects of any.

Thru this testimony the prosecution is attempting to offset evidence which will likely be submitted by the defense tending to show that the decedent had been drinking.

Eight Witnesses Examined.—Eight state witnesses were on the stand this afternoon and the trial is progressing rapidly. Three of these were at the farm of Crawford when the tragedy was enacted. The prosecution has eighteen witnesses and there is a possibility that the state will rest its case by tomorrow noon.

The defense has a few less witnesses than the prosecution. To speed up the trial Judge E. S. Smith will convene court at 8 o'clock in the morning instead of the usual 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Luther Crawford, wife of the slain man, was the first witness in the trial and she told of accompanying her husband to Jacksonville on the morning of the day he met death. She was with him constantly, she said, and did not see him drink whiskey or other intoxicating liquors. They returned to their home in the country early in the afternoon. She testified as to the locations of the Crawford and Zachary farms southeast of Jacksonville in Pisgah precinct. She was also asked as to the age, physical condition and health of her husband. The widow was not on the witness stand a great length of time.

Heard Shots Fired.—Charles Duffer was the second witness and after answering a number of questions by attorneys for the state was subjected to a lengthy cross examination by Attorney Hairgrove of the defense. The cross questioning dwelt largely with the detailed explanation of the position of the victim at the time of the shooting.

Duffer was a neighbor of the two men and was at the home of Luther Crawford on the afternoon of the tragedy. He testified that he heard two shots, followed by a cry from Crawford, "Don't shoot me any more, Uncle Sam." Duffer said he heard two more shots then ran to the house and telephoned for the sheriff and physician.

A detailed idea of roads, the lay of the land and out-buildings on the Crawford farm was given by the witness. These questions and answers were largely to acquaint the jurors more fully with the immediate scene of the shooting.

Norman Aulabaugh of Jacksonville, a truck driver for the Standard Oil Co., told his knowledge of the affair. He said he arrived at the Crawford residence about the middle of the afternoon and carried on some business with Albert Filey, who boarded with the Crawfords. He saw Crawford and Zachary talking in the road but could not hear what they were saying. He did not hear Crawford say anything about wanting to see Zachary nor did he see the actual shooting. The oil man was one of the first who reached the wounded farmer and placed him on a cot in the yard.

Declared Crawford Sober.—Albert Filey of Alexander, a former resident of the Pisgah precinct, was on the stand longer than any of the previous witnesses and he is considered one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution.

Filey was the second witness to testify so far as he knew that Crawford had not been drinking on Nov. 16, 1921. Filey said he was summoned as a witness before the Morgan county grand jury on that date and accompanied the Crawford family to Jacksonville, that they were at the court house all morning and took dinner at a restaurant.

About two o'clock in the afternoon they went to Green's garage on North Main street to purchase an auto tire and after that they started for home.

At the coroner's inquest in Jacksonville the day following the shooting Filey testified that he heard Crawford call to Zachary as the latter approached in the road. Today Filey failed to recall this statement and said that it might have been so but he did not remember it. He saw two of the shots fired by Zachary, but gave no important bearing on the action of the two men before this time. Two shots were fired, according to the witness, after Crawford had staggered into a ditch and fallen down.

The wounded man was out of Filey's sight after the second shot, owing to a bank at the side of the road which impeded his view.

Re-enacted Shooting

State's Attorney Robinson asked Filey to show the jury the position from which Zachary fired the last two shots. The witness getting to his feet and using his arms to illustrate the defendant's movements, pointed an imaginary shot gun in a downward position. This was considered important testimony in connection with the state's efforts to prove that Zachary approached nearer to Crawford and fired the last two shots while the latter was lying face down in the mud.

The testimony of Fred Osterloh of the Mound vicinity west of Jacksonville did not carry great bearing on the case. Mr. Osterloh was at the time of the tragedy employed on the Iven Cox farm southeast of Jacksonville, which is a quarter of a mile from the Crawford farm. He heard four shots, two of them close together, the others at longer intervals.

John L. Tayman, who is connected with the Gillham Funeral Home in Jacksonville, was the next to take the stand, and described the wounds on the dead man's body. Both arms were badly mangled, Tayman said, and the abdomen was perforated by 75 or 100 shots. Tayman was asked about the wound on the left arm in particular and stated that the charge of shot appeared to have struck it from the outside and ranged upward toward the arm pit.

Physician On Stand

Dr. Edward Rowe of Jacksonville testified that he had attended Crawford at Passavant hospital within a short time after he was taken to that city. He gave a description of the wounds and stated that in his belief that death was caused by the wound on the left arm, altho the one on the right arm was serious and the many small wounds on the abdomen contributed to death.

During cross examination the physician was asked if after inspection of the wound on the left arm if he could tell in what position Crawford had been standing in relation to the point from which the shot was fired. To this question Dr. Rowe replied that he could not explain, that the arm is a much moved part of the body and can be placed in any position.

Dr. Rowe will also appear as a witness for the defense.

The third witness of the day to testify as to Crawford's conduct on the fatal day was his brother, Elmer Crawford, who had been in Jacksonville with him. Luther Crawford had not been drinking on that day, the witness declared. State's Attorney Robinson asked the witness the condition of the roads as they made the return trip to their home that afternoon. Crawford said the roads were muddy. "How about the roads from Jacksonville to the Crawford farm, are they level or are there some hills?" Robinson asked. The witness said there were seven or eight hills.

When asked who drove the car, he replied that his brother Luther did. Thru this line of questioning it is to be taken that the state is endeavoring to establish beyond a doubt that Luther Crawford had not taken liquor and was sober at the time he was killed.

Interest In Trial Grows

The fact that the roads were muddy and that they traveled over a number of hills without mishap is presented by the prosecution to show that Crawford was in his normal condition.

The court room crowd grew larger today with the beginning of testimony. A number of Winchester high school students interested in court procedure were present during the afternoon session. In adjourning court Judge Smith mentioned this fact and called the students to the front for a friendly little talk.

Statements by Attorneys

The jury was completed at 11:40 o'clock this morning and Robinson started his address to the jury at once. When he had finished it was well passed the noon hour. With the opening of court at 1:30 Attorney Hairgrove addressed the jury and the remainder of the afternoon was occupied by testimony of state witnesses of which there are eighteen.

Mr. Robinson reviewed briefly the happenings in connection with Luther Crawford's death with which Samuel T. Zachary is blamed. He told of some trouble which had arisen between the men over a charge which had been made against one of Crawford's sons. This affair led to a meeting of the men on the afternoon of November 16, 1921, and which time Crawford was shot and mortally wounded by Zachary.

The state's attorney described the shooting in vivid terms. He pictured Crawford as unarmed and Zachary as carrying a shot gun and being in an angry mood. He followed the movement of the men up to the time the first shot was fired and then in a more detailed manner portrayed in words Crawford's plight.

The jury was told of the wounded man's cries for mercy and of his plea, "Don't shoot me any more Sam," and then of Zachary's alleged reply, "By God I will."

Robinson said that among some of the witnesses who saw the shot fired are Albert Filey of Alexander, a former neighbor of Crawford, Norman Aulabaugh, a truck driver for the Standard Oil company, and Charles Duffer. These men will testify this evening or tomorrow. Dr. Rowe saw two shots fired and is one of the prosecution's chief witnesses.

That Crawford was the aggressor in the meeting with Zachary until the latter produced his shot gun to protect his own life was the statement of Hairgrove to the jury this afternoon. He said witnesses will appear for the defense to testify that Crawford was imbibing "white mud" on the afternoon of his death; that he boasted that he was going to make Zachary apologize.

That Crawford threatened and treated the defendant roughly before a shot was fired. Zachary's clothing was torn, his neck injured, his face scratched and button torn from his shirt before he turned the tide of battle with his firearm, the defendant's lawyer stated. It is understood that the defendant will produce several witnesses in an effort to prove that Crawford had been drinking in Jacksonville a few hours before his death. "He was all geared up on that Morgan county product known as white mud and boasted that he was going to make Zachary apologize for what he had said," was the way Hairgrove put it.

The defendant will attempt to show that all the charges of shot that entered Crawford's body were from the front. The prosecution contends that one shot was fired from the back. The defendant is also prepared to combat a statement of the prosecution that Crawford was shot twice while lying in a ditch on the side of the road. The undertaking will be called to testify as to the exact wounds on the body.

Hairgrove impressed upon the jurors that they are not dealing with a criminal but a law abiding citizen of Morgan county for more than fifty years.

RECITAL AT ACADEMY HALL TUESDAY NIGHT

Miss Clara Smith, Pianist and Miss Hilda VanTuyke, Vocalist Appeared in Brilliant Program

Last evening there was given in the Recital hall of the Conservatory a joint recital of piano and song by Miss Clara Smith and Miss Hilda VanTuyke. An audience of fair size assembled to hear these two advanced students of the conservatory, who have both studied for some years here and become more or less familiar in recitals and concerts. The program, which was varied, interesting and not too long, opened with a Sonata for piano by Beethoven, one of the most beautiful of the Sonatas, the Waldstein, played by Miss Smith with vigor and dignity. Her tone in the slower parts was lovely, while the rapid passage work was done fleetly and clearly.

Miss VanTuyke gave two arias for her first group, one of the old classic school, one of the modern, and it would be difficult to say which suited her voice and general style better. The long drawn phrases of the Handel Aria were handled skillfully, with purity of tone and lovely mezza-voice, and the impassioned Puccini Air was delivered with abandon.

Miss Smith's second group was a well contrasted one of Schumann and Rachmaninoff. The "Moods" was given in a manner suited to its title, with well controlled rubato, and the two Russian numbers received an intelligent interpretation, which is to say they were delightful and well received.

In her second group Miss VanTuyke seemed quite at home, and showed what she could do in the way of breath control and phrasing. The familiar and always lovely Schubert song was well sustained, and the unfamiliar Norwegian number, with its violin-like humming, was most charming.

Godard's exquisite Venetian Barcarolle was played by Miss Smith with a variety of expression which showed her musical nature, and the brilliant Valse Parisienne of Schuetz was given with the energy and fervor it needs, bringing a hearty response from the audience.

The final group of songs was of delightful variety, the Scott Lullaby and the dramatic "Grey Wolf" being particularly well done.

Many of the accompaniments were quite difficult, but they were all sympathetically and accurately played by Miss Ruth Derwart.

WILL OBSERVE HOSPITAL DAY

Passavant hospital will hold its third annual celebration of National Hospital Day, at the hospital on Friday May 11th. As this is a community celebration it is expected that visitors from all the surrounding country will attend.

The plans are for a large picnic dinner, with speeches and music afterwards, the idea being to form a better acquaintance between the people and the hospitals and their staff.

National hospital day was first observed in 1921, in both the United States and Canada, the date being set on May 12th, in honor of Florence Nightingale's birthday, but the local hospital set the date this year on the 11th on account of the 12th falling on Saturday.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 1.—Chicago bunched hits behind errors by Gerber and bases on balls and defeated St. Louis 5 to 3 today. ## The Suicides' Club

By JOHN PALMER

"They call the Cosmopolitan cafe the Suicides' club," said Reynolds to his companion, whom he had ventured to address after he had sat side by side at the little marble-topped table for some minutes.

And that was a long time, for every one speaks to every one in the Cosmopolitan, one of those cafes for which London is famous, frequented by celebrities and half-celebrities in the art and literary worlds.

Reynolds did not know much about the place, but he had been in three or four times during his visit to England, and a friend had pointed out a few of the habitués to him.

"How's that?" replied the other in such a curious tone that Reynolds looked at him with careful scrutiny.

He had a very pale, clean-shaven face, very dark hair, a high forehead; he looked distinguished, and he looked hard up, even hungry.

"Perhaps you know this place pretty well yourself?" suggested Reynolds.

"Oh, a little, but I'd be glad to know a little more about it," answered the other. "Why did you say they call it the Suicides' club?"

"Because three or four men have blown out their brains here," answered Reynolds. "Over a certain notorious woman," he added. He searched the interior, but Eva Raymond, the actress, was nowhere to be seen.

"She's Eva Raymond," he explained. "Appears to be a sort of siren—and she really is a remarkable looking person. A handsome, dark type. I don't see anything to rave about in her myself, but then, of course, I'm not smitten. Do you know her?"

"I've seen her," answered the other. "Call her attractive?" asked Reynolds.

"Well, that depends more or less on what you would call attractive. The other answered. "As to physical beauty, I should say no. She is a handsome woman, but hardly anything more. Mentally they say she is above par."

"Yes? Of course I haven't met her," said Reynolds. "What is the attraction?"

"How can I explain it?" mused the other. "The charm of a woman of that character appears to be something subjective—each person feels it differently. At any rate, I know she has had numerous lovers. But how about these suicides you were speaking of?"

"Why," responded Reynolds hesitantly, for he felt that he was only repeating what had been told him, "of course the police keep it hushed up pretty well, but this place, you know, is a sort of clearing house for artists and people of that type. Perhaps you are one?"

"Well, I—I write a little poetry. But go on."

"Well, only last week there was a man came in here and shot himself at her feet, they say. She had thrown him over in favor of another. And then, a few months ago, there was a young painter took poison in here. He left a letter accusing her as a vampire."

"That's very interesting," said the stranger thoughtfully. "Of course I've heard rumors of that kind."

"You don't know her? I hope I haven't been guilty of a blunder?" "I've seen her. But you haven't trouble yourself; I guess gossip is the penalty, or perhaps the reward of publicity."

"Why—there comes Eva Raymond now!" exclaimed Reynolds, touching his companion's arm.

A tall, very handsome woman was coming into the cafe with a little runt of a man. She was superbly dressed, and it might have been thought she had chosen her companion as a foil. Every one looked at her as she came up to ward where Reynolds and his companion sat, but she walked with superb unconsciousness.

"The two sat down at a little table a short distance away. "Stunner, isn't she?" said Reynolds.

"Yes," said his companion. "Excuse me for a moment, will you?" Reynolds did not know whether he intended to return. Quite calmly the man made his way toward the table at which the couple sat. The woman raised her eyes and looked at him calmly. The man looked as calmly back again. He made a curious gesture with his hand. A shot rang out. There was a cry. Through the tumult Eva Raymond never stirred—only looked at the body, falling, falling.

WARSAW MOVIES CLOSE

Warsaw.—Movie tickets in Warsaw are taxed 100 per cent, and as a protest to the authorities all the movie houses recently got together and closed. The government is losing 20,000,000 Polish marks a day as a result.

The authorities came back with an order on the movie men to reopen at once, or have their premises confiscated for use as schools. Public opinion, however, is with the picture men, and it is believed the dispute will be compromised by the collection of a 50 per cent tax.

WANT LOCAL GOLFERS TO MATCH CHAMPIONS

Contest on June 3rd Between Keywood and Flood and Evans and McDonald Meets with Popular Approval—119 Persons Played on Court Last Sunday

There is a popular demand that Jack Keywood, the local professional golfer, and Leo Flood, the municipal amateur champion, play a match with Chib Evans and Bob McDonald on the local links June 3rd. Golf enthusiasts consider it entirely fitting that the two Jacksonville stars should be pitted against the visitors. There is also a probability that Evans and McDonald will play an exhibition match.

The visitors will arrive in the city on Sunday morning, and will be guests for luncheon at the home of F. E. Farrell. In the evening they will be guests of C. Y. Rowe. Committees have been appointed to arrange the matches and to work out a program of entertainment for the day.

One hundred and nineteen people played Sunday on the local course. The greens are in good shape and the course is steadily improving in condition. Jack Keywood gave his first outdoor lessons on the course yesterday, and a large number are signing up for instruction in the popular game.

Public Approval

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands before the public squarely on its merits as an organization of service.

In directing the affairs of this Company, the management is animated by ideals of justice, fairness and equity to employee, consumer, competitor, stockholder and the general public.

Because it insists that the rights of all should be safeguarded, the Company has prospered and has taken its place as a leader in an essential industry.

To achieve commercial success, profits are necessary. Profits can come only through liberal patronage of the buying public.

This public will not patronize an organization whose methods are unfair or unjust. Continued prosperity comes only to the Company which renders a superior service and sells honest merchandise at an honest price.

To every fair-minded observer it must be obvious that hundreds of thousands of people are patronizing the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and are doing so because they have found by experience that the service rendered by this company is reliable and that the goods it sells are uniform and dependable and that its prices are consistently fair.

Figures recently published by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that one-third of the automobile registrations are concentrated in the ten states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—yet, the price of gasoline in this territory compares favorably with that in any similar section in the world.

This low scale of prices is attributed to the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

By its ever increasing patronage the public places the stamp of its approval upon the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The acknowledged efficiency of this Company is due to the unflinching loyalty of its 27,000 employees; to the high ideals of service which the management has inaugurated and insists upon maintaining; to the unequalled facilities which this Company has provided for carrying on the business.

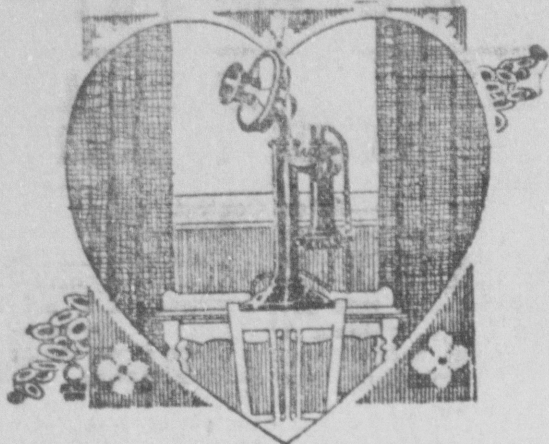

The loyalty of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employee is based upon the knowledge that this Company recognizes the rights of the worker to steady employment at good wages; to a liberal annuity plan; to protection against accident, and to opportunity to invest in the Company's business on favorable terms.

Because of this efficiency, recognized and approved by the public, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to pay to the stockholders a fair return on the capital invested, and to build up a sufficient reserve to enable it to expand its business to keep pace with the public need.

TORTOISE OF GREAT AGE

Allotted Span of Three Score Years and Ten Without Significance to Those Creatures.

What animal lives the longest? Probably the tortoise, though we cannot be quite sure. According to Mr. Frederic A. Lucas in Natural History, three historic tortoises probably have attained the greatest ages definitely recorded for any animals.

A tortoise from the Aldabra islands that is still living at St. Helena, says Mr. Lucas, has the distinction of being the only creature now alive that saw the great Napoleon, who died more than a century ago. How old the tortoise was when brought to St. Helena we do not know, but venerable as it seems to us with our allotted span of threescore years and ten, it is not so old as another tortoise, which is—or recently was—living on the island of Mauritius, whither it was brought from the Seychelles many years before, being even then of unusual size. In Mauritius it became a national possession and in 1810 was specifically mentioned in the treaty by which the French ceded the island to England. It is said to have been living in Mauritius for at least seventy years, so that it is pretty safe to conclude that it is at least one hundred and fifty years old.

That tortoise has been confounded with another, which was brought to England in 1897, and which now is preserved in the Rothschild museum at Tring. It was certainly more than one hundred and fifty years old at the time of its death—probably it was nearer two hundred years—and it is the largest known tortoise. It is reported to have attained the weight of five hundred and sixty pounds.

NOISE IS THEIR BIG IDEA

Queer "Musical" Instruments That Are in Use Among the Savage Tribes in Africa.

When visitors of prominence tour Africa they are greeted by the most amazing efforts on the part of a native band. One of the favorite instruments is a huge xylophone, many yards in length, upon which a score of blacks whack and bang to their hearts' content. Those at one end pound small pieces of wood, which give out high notes, while pieces of considerable size supply the bass tones. A few empty petrol tins placed here and there give drum effects. As a rule the savage prefers something that he can bang, but any noise is better than none. In the East, wild music is played on pipes made of bamboo, while hollow gourds of various sizes provide the African savage with home-grown flutes, clarinets and bassoons. Sometimes he will arrange them so that they form a kind of piano. He sits surrounded by a circle of dried fruits, whose hollow skins give out high or low notes, according to their size, as he taps them with his fingers.

Ten Commandments of Buddha. Buddha, the great religious teacher of India, has 300,000,000 followers. Condensed into ten short precepts, his doctrines may be as follows: 1. From the meanest insect up to man thou shalt kill no animal whatever. 2. Thou shalt not steal. 3. Thou shalt not commit adultery. 4. Thou shalt speak no word that is false. 5. Thou shalt drink no wine or anything to intoxicate. 6. Thou shalt avoid all anger, hatred and bitter language. 7. Thou shalt not indulge in idle or vain talk. 8. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods. 9. Thou shalt not harbor pride, envy, revenge, or malice, or desire the death or misfortune of thy neighbor. 10. Thou shalt not follow the doctrines of strange gods.

Tattooed From Birth.

It used to be quite common in Fiji and Samoa for a man to bear upon his arm or body a certificate of his birth which was practically indelible. Tattooing is carried on in these islands to an absurd extent, and it is the practice to tattoo on the hand of a mother the date of her children's births. Sometimes, also, an enthusiastic father will tattoo the date of the birth on the child itself, and no matter how long it lives, the certificate will remain easily decipherable. In some adjoining islands every child is tattooed almost from head to foot upon completing its twelfth year. The result is remarkable, especially if the child is growing rapidly, as the space between the tattoo marks increase in size year by year.

The Painter's Idiom.

The painter's message is spoken in paint, truly enough. But paint is a highly specialized medium, the specific quality of which is not readily comprehended by most people. Words, if anything, are popularly understood. To write about paintings properly is as far as possible to translate them from a more difficult to a less difficult medium. Since the justification of every art is its ability to say things which no other can, no translation can ever be complete; but enough of the message of painting can be indicated by words to arouse curiosity, to sharpen perception, to convey delight. So that by interesting people in what can be said about paintings they may be led on to an interest in the paintings themselves.—Virgil Barker, in Art and Decorations.

The Significant Present.

A genuine love of your own time is the recognition of what you meet in it, of those best moments which crave to be made accessible even for the remotest of ages following. To immortalize any given moment, however, is to take it out of the temporary and somehow to find a language for it so general in its appeal that hereafter it may preserve in its own significance the trivial circumstances from which it first arose.—John Erskine.

Satisfaction is perhaps the one word which best describes the feeling of every Hupmobile owner.

Satisfaction — with the faithful way it performs the tasks he sets for it to do; with the fact that it requires next to nothing in the way of expert care and adjustment; with low costs that stay low all the year 'round.

Satisfaction, in short, because the Hupmobile always does the things he wants it to do in the way he wants it to do them.

GREAT INCREASE IN SHIPMENTS OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Data published in an editorial in the current issue of the Railway Age illustrate strikingly the large increase which has occurred within recent years in this country in the production and transportation of fruits and vegetables requiring the use of refrigeration, and indicate why the railways have had shortage of refrigerator cars.

"It has been repeatedly asserted until many people believe it," says the Railway Age, "that high freight rates have operated as an 'embargo' upon the shipments of farm products. It having been shown that the total carloads of grain and livestock actually shipped in 1921 and 1922 were in each of these years larger than in any previous year in history, attacks recently have been concentrated upon the effects said to have been produced by high freight rates upon the shipments of fruits and vegetables. It has been asserted that thousands of acres of fine apples, peaches, melons, onions, cabbage and potatoes have rotted where they grow because they could not bear the freight rates upon them. The plain implication of these statements is that because of high freight rates there have been actual reductions in the quantity shipped of the farm products mentioned.

"The facts as shown by statistics which have been compiled by the American Railway Association are strikingly at variance with such statements. The number of carloads of fruits and vegetables shipped in car lots in the year 1920 was 640,065. In 1921 it was 731,875, and in 1922 it was 798,997. This was an increase in total shipments in two years of 25 per cent.

"There are 22 different kinds of fruits and vegetables, the statistics regarding the shipments of which, within the last three years, are available. Of these the shipments of 17 increased in both 1921 and 1922. These 17 fruits and vegetables are cabbage, cantaloupes, celery, grapefruit, lettuce, mixed vegetables, mixed deciduous fruits, onions, peaches, pears, spinach, strawberries, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, watermelons and white potatoes.

"There has been a loud outcry in the West, especially because, as has been charged, the price of potatoes has been so low and the freight rates so high that it has been impossible to ship a large part of those grown. In June 1920, the average farm price of potatoes, according to reports of the Department of Agriculture, was 60¢ per cent higher than in 1913. In other words, if in that year the total crop of potatoes had been just as large as in 1913, the producers would have received seven times as much for it as they did for their crop in 1913. In 1922 the farm price of potatoes averaged slightly lower than in 1913. In other words, it was only about one-seventh as much as in 1920. Freight rates on potatoes, as well as other commodities, were higher in 1922 than in 1920. Therefore, on the theory that freight rates play a large part in determining whether a particular farm product can and will be shipped, the total shipments of potatoes in 1922 should have been much smaller than in 1920. The facts about potatoes are that in 1920 the total shipments of both sweet and white potatoes were 191,773 cars, while in 1922 they were 260,836 carloads, an increase of 31 per cent. The case of the humble tuber has been used more than any other to show how high freight rates have operated as an 'embargo' upon the shipments of farm products, and yet the facts show that on the rates in effect in 1922 almost one-third more potatoes were actually transported to market than under the lower rates in effect in 1920.

"This very great increase in the shipments of potatoes demonstrates one thing conclusively. This is that there was an extremely large increase in the amount of potatoes produced. This large increase in production, of course, explains the great decline in the market price.

"The facts regarding the increase in the actual shipments of other fruits and vegetables explain why other prices declined. The increase between 1920 and 1922 in the shipments of peaches was almost 50 per cent. The increase in the shipments of tomatoes was over 75 per cent. The increase in the shipments of strawberries was 120 per cent. The shipments of spinach almost doubled. Of course prices are likely to decline when there are such increases in production of specific products as these increases in shipments indicate. The railways are not responsible for losses incurred by producers caused by declines of prices brought about by overproduction, and for demand that freight rates shall be reduced with the result of causing losses to the railways merely to save producers from the effects of mistakes made by themselves in over-estimating the market for their products is unjust."

There Is No Other Food Like Grape-Nuts

WHILE practically every man, woman and child in the English-speaking world knows Grape-Nuts as a delicious, nourishing and wholesome cereal, and while it is common knowledge that Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food, many housewives do not know of the appetizing and economical dishes that can be prepared with Grape-Nuts. It lends itself, we believe, to more uses than any other cereal. The convenience and economy of Grape-Nuts, and the flavor, zest and wholesomeness which it imparts to other food, make it invaluable in every home.

Frequently we receive interesting letters from women throughout the country, telling about the attractive dishes they make with Grape-Nuts—delicious puddings, salads, dressings for fowls, etc. No doubt there are thousands of women who are finding varied uses for Grape-Nuts in their home cooking, and even more thousands who will be glad to learn of those varied uses; for while we all cling to old favorite dishes, we also welcome and enjoy a change.

So that is the thought back of our offer of more than $7500.00 in cash for new ways of using Grape-Nuts. To those women who are already using Grape-Nuts in various ways, other than as a breakfast cereal or in the recipes given here, and to those women who would like to try their hand at developing some new way to use Grape-Nuts, we offer to buy at $50.00 each not less than 101 new Grape-Nuts Recipes. We plan to include these new Recipes in a beautifully illustrated cook book.

What Is Grape-Nuts?

Grape-Nuts is a highly nutritious food in the form of crisp, golden granules. It contains the full nutrition of wheat and barley, including vitamin-B and mineral elements required for building sturdy health. These elements are often lacking in the ordinary diet, chiefly through "over-refinement" in the preparation of food.

No other food is so thoroughly baked as Grape-Nuts. More than 20 hours are consumed in the baking process which makes Grape-Nuts easy to digest, and also develops a natural sweetness from the grains themselves.

The form and crispness of Grape-Nuts invite thorough mastication—a decided advantage because this not only provides proper exercise for the teeth, but makes for good digestion.

Every housewife in the Land should take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity to earn the tidy sum of $50.00 by a little pleasant and educational effort in her own home. Also the fair and equal chance to secure one of the liberal awards to be made by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Moreover, there's the greater knowledge of the value of Grape-Nuts, not only as a delicious breakfast cereal, but in the preparation of a variety of appetizing dishes that add to the health and pleasure of the whole family.

CROPS LOOK GOOD

C. H. Story, of Story's Exchange, yesterday made a trip to Mercedosa and Beardstown, and came back to Jacksonville via Virginia.

He reports that the wheat fields are looking very good, and the wheat in the bottom lands looks unusually fine. Practically all of the corn ground is plowed and a great many corn planters were running, with quite a large acreage already planted. April being an unusually dry month, rain is needed everywhere, and as the warm weather approaches a good rain becomes more essential.

NOT AFRAID OF MERRIMAC

Commodore Vanderbilt Eager to Engage Dreaded Confederate Warship of Warfare.

When the Confederate ram, Merrimac, burst out of its hiding place and made such fearful havoc among the federal frigates in Hampton roads during the Civil war, great consternation was caused in the nation's capital. Ericsson's little Monitor, arriving at Fortress Monroe in the nick of time, had driven the monster into his cave, but it was feared he would emerge again presently and continue the devastation. Through Thurlow Weed, Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of the Vanderbilt millinery and known to New Yorkers as "the Commodore," made President Lincoln an offer to stop the ram and keep it away with one of his own ships, stipulating, however, that he would accept no money for his services and that he was to be free from bossing of the Navy department. It was further stipulated that he was to have command with a crew to be furnished by the government. In 30 hours he was steaming into the mouth of the James river. The commodore was then sixty-seven years old, and his ship was his namesake, the Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt promised that if the Merrimac reappeared he would "run her down as a bound runs down a wolf, strike her amidships and sink her." The Merrimac did not reappear.

After the immediate danger was over the commodore returned home, but he generally agreed to allow the ship to remain in the service until the war was over.—Detroit News.

LAUD THE HUMBLE PICKLE

Long Unsung, It Has at Last Come Into Its Own as a Beautifier.

The lowly pickle has come into its own. It has at last been recognized as a beautifier. Little difference does it make that the person who recognized it happens to be president of the Pickle Packers' association; the important thing is that, it is claimed by the same gentleman that it was constant nibbling of this cucumberish delicacy that gave Catherine of Aragon the beauty that won the heart of Henry VIII.

As was to be expected, traders have already risen to ask why the pickles failed to keep her beautiful enough to retain Henry's love. This is, perhaps, a natural question. When Henry put Catherine away he did it in a most gentle manner, just as do our modern persons who take a trip to Reno or Paris when the love fire grows cold. Her non-pickle-eating successor, Anne Boleyn, was treated with no such consideration when her brief day ended. It consequently appears that the very objection raised to an argument for the pickle as a beautifier indicates that it may be not only that, but a lifesaver as well.—Springfield Union.

Glands Are Funny Things.

Why is it that military music makes one want to march; that jazz music makes one want to dance, and plaintive music makes one sad? Science has discovered that it is all due to a little gland situated at the base of one's brain, and it controls the rhythmic beating of the heart. It prevents it from racing or working irregularly. Marital music excites the pituitary gland very much, and in response the gland manufactures and sends into one's blood more than its normal amount of fluid. It is this fluid that controls the speed of one's heart, and with the extra amount one's heart beats much faster, giving one that exhilarated military feeling.

Another type of music acts on the pituitary gland in just the opposite way—it slows it down, with an accompanying depression or sadness.—Detroit News.

Reasons for Cooking.

There are three chief purposes of cooking. The first is to change the mechanical condition so that the digestive juices can act upon the food more freely. Heating often changes the structure of food materials very decidedly, so that they are more easily masticated and more easily and thoroughly digested. The second is to make it more appetizing by improving the appearance or flavor, or both. Food which is attractive quickens the flow of saliva and other digestive juices and thus digestion is aided. The third is to kill by heat any disease germs, parasites and other dangerous organisms it may contain. This is often a very important matter, and applies to both animal and vegetable foods.

Westminster Abbey Bells.

It is only on very rare occasions, for instance, such as a royal wedding, that the peal of Westminster abbey bells is heard. The tenor bell is very old, dating from 1430, and two of the others were presented by Gabriel Goodman, dean of Westminster in Queen Elizabeth's time. The octave was incomplete, however, until some time ago, when two additional bells were added, and the existing six were at the same time rehung and tuned.

How the Great Pyramid Was Built.

They worked in relays of 100,000 men, continuously, each relay for three months. The people spent ten years upon the ramp over which they dragged the stones, a work not less in my judgment, than that of building the pyramid itself. . . . The ten years, I mean, were expended upon this ramp, and the work upon the mound upon which the pyramids stood, and upon the chambers underground. . . . The time occupied in building the pyramid itself was 20 years.—Herodotus, in his "History," 450 B. C.

WHITE HALL NEWS NOTES

White Hall, May 1.—Wage increase of 2½c per hour is effective May 1st in the White Hall clay works. The increase effects hourly and contract labor, of which there are 290 or more, and makes the minimum wage 36½c per hour.

An aged lady, perhaps 65 years old and demented, was taken into custody by Police Chief Tatman Sunday night. She had been brought here on the 8:18 p. m. train on the C. & A. She talked incoherently, giving her name as Mrs. Holtenrider of Hannibal, Mo., at which place she said she had relatives, but efforts to get in touch with them failed. She was taken to Carrollton Monday and thence to the state hospital at Jacksonville.

Mrs. T. J. Elgin is here from Augusta, Ga. She is a daughter of the late James E. Tunison.

Now a QUICK
Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Tell Him Which
Your grocer has two styles now

Now there's an oat dish almost ready to serve. It is called Quick Quaker—the quickest cooking oats in the world. Get this style, and your oat dish—perfectly cooked—is ready before the coffee.

No other oat dish compares in quick cooking.

The same delights

The same extra quality, the same delicious flavor. All Quaker Oats are flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, flavorful oats. All the flavorless grains are discarded. So we get but ten pounds of these premier flakes from a bushel.

That's the reason for the Quaker fame. Millions of mothers, all the world over, send for Quaker Oats so children get that flavor.

Quick Quaker has that flavor. But the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

If your breakfasts are hurried and you want a quick dish, Quick Quaker is ready in from 3 to 5 minutes. But get this Quaker quality, this super-flavor anyway. Serve this supreme food at its best.
